African Minerals Development Centre
United Nations Economic Commission for Africa

Africa is well endowed with mineral resources and has a long history of mining, but has so far not reaped the developmental benefits from these resources. This is largely due to the weak integration of Africa’s mining sector into national economic and social activities.

The African Union (AU) Heads of State and Government have taken deliberate steps to address this weakness, through the endorsement of the Africa Mining Vision (AMV) and the establishment of the African Minerals Development Centre (AMDC) to provide strategic operational support for the Vision and its Action Plan.

The mission of the Centre is to work with member States and their national and regional organisations to promote the transformative role of mineral resources in the development of the continent through increased economic and social linkages. A key objective of the Centre is to ensure that Africa’s interests and concerns in this lucrative sector are properly articulated and internalized throughout the continent, for the benefit and prosperity of all.

South African Department of Mineral Resources

The vision of the Department of Mineral Resources is to enable a globally competitive, sustainable and meaningfully transformed minerals and mining sector to ensure that all South Africans derive sustainable benefit from the country’s mineral wealth. This is achieved within our legislative framework and as the legitimate custodian of the country’s mineral wealth.

The Department’s mission is to promote and regulate the minerals and mining for transformation, growth, and development and ensure that all South Africans derive sustainable benefit from the country’s mineral wealth.

Ministry of Natural Resources
The Republic of Rwanda

Mining is one of the five sub-sectors that constitute the Environment and Natural Resources Sector. This sub-sector has a mission to build a strong geology and mines sector in order to increase national revenue through proper management of mineral resources. Mining is identified in Vision 2020 as one of the key sectors to be developed to expand the economic base and exports. The Ministry of Natural Resources is responsible for designing the sub sector’s legal framework and also for granting prospecting, exploration and mining licences. Rwanda Natural Resources through the Geology and Mining Department provides technical and administrative support and follow-up to the performance of the mining sector and generally to implement policy. The mining policy covers not only mineral extraction, processing and export, but also quarrying, production of construction materials and extraction and processing of semi-precious stones.

The Mining sub-sector is one of the major sources of income to the country with revenue from minerals exportation. The new mining law and related ministerial decrees were published and a new mining policy was adopted by Cabinet. The acquisition of new geophysical data led to the identification of new mineral potential areas, which are now the targets for new investment and detailed exploration.
